MEMORANDUM ON THE OBJECTS OF THE NATIONAL ENVIRONMENTAL MANAGEMENT LAWS AMENDMENT BILL, 2008

1. INTRODUCTION

- 1.1 The Bill seeks to amend the National Environment Management Act, 1998 (Act No. 107 of 1998) to amend the definition of 'specific environment management Act' (Clause 1); to repeal the provisions relating to the National Environmental Advisory Forum and Committee for Environmental Co-ordination and replace it with a simpler procedure whereby the Minister may establish fora or advisory committees (Clauses 2 and 3); to provide for a person who has admitted to having committed an offence to be also subject to the directives of the Minister or the MEC (Clause 9 (a) and (b)). The Bill provides for the retrospective application of the provisions of NEMA for pollution or degradation of the environment (Clause 10(c)(15)) and proposes new enabling provisions for new criminal offences and the increase of penalties and providing for the jurisdiction of the magistrate's court (Clause 10(c)(15)). The Bill also provides for the removal of the requirement that Environmental Management Inspectors must carry the notices of designation, as well as providing for their increased powers (Clauses 13, 14 and 15). Sections 31 and 31Q are partially repealed since certain provisions are regulated by the Promotion of Access to Information Act, 2000 (Clause 16 and 17). The Bill also seeks to increase the number of Acts and Ordinances to which the powers of the court will apply upon conviction of an offence under these Acts and Ordinances, as well giving the court the power to order that the remediation be undertaken by the convicted person instead of the state (Clause 18).
- 1.2 The Bill increases the penalty for offences and seeks to remove the need for the publishing in the Gazette directives issued under the Environment Conservation Act, 1989 (Act No. 73 of 1989) (Clauses 20 and 21). Section 32 of ECA is also amended by the correction of the reference to the Minister of Water Affairs and Forestry (Clause 21).
- 1.3 The Bill provides for the addition of Schedule 2, replacing the Schedule in the National Parks Act, 1976, in the National Environmental Management: Protected Area Act, 2003 (Act No. 57 of 2003) detailing areas of National Parks (Clause 22); that management of special nature reserves may be assigned to a suitable person or organisation or organ of state but the management of a national park can only be assigned to the South African National Parks (Clause 24); that flying corridors over national parks and heritage sites and specific areas need the prior permission of the management authority (Clauses 25(a) and (b)) and provides for an appeal to the Minister against a decision of the management authority (Clause 25(c)); extending Act's application to mining activities before the commencement of the Act in order to reduce the impact and mitigate the environmental impacts of the activity (Clause 26)); to provide for the ownership and control over animal species occurring in and escaping from protected areas (Clause 27); to provide for measures for dealing with the winding up and dissolution of: the South African National Parks (Clause 28); to allow the South African National Parks to manage all existing parks, nature reserves and protected environments that is assigned to them (Clause 29 (a)-(d)); to provided for traffic fines in parks (Clause 30); to extend the right to expropriate servitudes to privately held rights; to increase penalties (Clause 31); to provide for increased fines (Clause 32 and 33)

- 1.4 To provide in the Atmospheric Pollution Prevention Act, 1956 (Act No. 45 of 1965) for increased penalties (Clause 34).
- 1.5 To provide for in the National Environmental Management: Air Quality Act, 2004 (Act No. 39 of 2004) for the review of licences only on payment of processing fees (Clause 35); to include juristic persons when considering whether a director or manager is a fit and proper person (Clause 36) and to provide for increase penalties (Clause 37).
- 1.6 To provide in the National Environmental Management: Biodiversity Act, 2004 (Act No. 10 of 2004) to allow for general surveillance (Clause 38); to align the factors to be taken into consideration with other Acts (Clause 39(c)); that the release of genetically modified organism into the environment requires a full environmental impact assessment (Clause 42); to allow for notification requirements before engaging in the discovery phase of bioprospecting of indigenous biological resources (Clause 44); to expand the definition of "indigenous to include "specific individuals" (Clause 45); for the Director-General to have the right to appoint a Trustee to administer the Biodiversity Trust fund (Clause 46); to provide for the renewal and amendment of permits (Clause 49) and to increase penalties (Clause 51).

2. BACKGROUND AND DISCUSSION

2.1 Events, processes and issues

The Department has appointed a drafter and the first draft of the Bill was received on 18 November 2007. The Directorate: Policy, Litigation and Law Reform has consulted internally with all affected branches and have incorporated all comments received. The Directorate has also compiled a proposed programme for the life cycle of the Bill (Annexure xx) for the Director General's consideration.

2.2 Main debates and strategic concerns

2.2.1 National Environment Management Act, 1998

Clause 1: Amendment of section 1

The Act defines the various Acts that falls within the definition of 'specific environmental management Act'. The proposed amendment will now provide that all 'National Environmental Management Acts' will be automatically incorporated in the definition. Further it deletes reference to 'Committee' and 'Forum' in line with Clauses 2 and 3.

Clause 2: Amendment of section 3

The section dealing with National Environmental Advisory Forum and Committee for Environmental Co-ordination have been deleted to be in alignment with the new section 3A.

Clause 3: New section 3A

The Act now provides for an easier method for the Minister to establish fora and committees as the present set up is cumbersome.

Clauses 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8: Amendment of sections 11, 13, 15, 16, and 22

These sections have been amended to delete all references to the Committee for Environmental Co-ordination as a result of the new amendment.

Clause 9: Amendment of section 24G

The Act does not allow the Minister or MEC to issue a directive in the event of a person admitting to having committed an offence. Further, at present a person who commits an offence has the discretion to apply for rectification. The Minister or MEC would be obliged to consider the application thus wasting time that is already stretched to process such an application. The Minister or MEC could not issue a directive on their own accord. This has now been rectified to the extent that a person under these circumstances can only apply for rectification if directed to do so by the Minister or MEC, concerned.

Clause 10: Amendment of section 28

This section required the Director-General or the provincial head of a department to take remedial measures itself to remedy a situation where damage was caused to the environment by pollution or degradation and the person failed to do so. This put a heavy financial burden on the State or province to carry out the necessary remedial works. This has now been rectified by providing that the Director-General or province can apply to the courts for appropriate relief. However, the costs must be claimed and recovered before being recovered as contemplated herein.

This section was held by a recent court judgment not to be retrospective and only applied in respect of any pollution or degradation to the environment from the date the Act came into operation. There was also no provision making the unlawful or intentional act or omission which caused, causes or likely to cause pollution or degradation of the environment an offence.

The proposed amendments seek to remedy the above.

Clause 11: Amendment of section 30

As the Act reads at present, there was only a moral duty to report emergency incidents. This has now been rectified by making it a criminal offence, carrying a fine of one hundred thousand rand or imprisonment of up to 10 years upon conviction.

Clause 12: Deletion of subsection of section 31

The above subsection now falls under the Promotion of Access to Information Act, 2000

Clause 13: Amendment of section 31F

An environment management inspector is forced to carry with him at all times both his or her identity card, as well as the letter of designation. This has practical implications if inspectors do not have their letter of designation with them. It is the opinion that an identity card was sufficient.

Clause 14: Amendment of section 31H

Environment management inspectors do not have the right to take photographs or audio-visual recordings during routine investigations. This causes practical problems which the amendment seeks to remedy.

Clause 15: Amendment of section 31K

At present environmental management inspectors cannot conduct routine inspections or search a motor vehicle at such inspection. As they have the same powers as a member of the South African Police Services. The amendment now gives them this power.

Clause 16: Amendment of section 31N

At present non-compliance reports are reported to the Minister or the MEC. As this is a purely administrative rather than an executive function, this can be carried out by the Director-General or Head of Department concerned. Further, it is felt that it is not necessary to report the matter to the Director of Public Prosecutions as this against public policy and the Public Service Commission Code of Conduct.

Clause 17: Deletion of section 31Q

In order to give some form of protection new provisions have been included to indicate the type of information that may be disclosed.

Clause 18: Amendment of section 34

The current section does not provide for the court to order the convicted person to undertake remedial action. This places a heavy financial burden on the Department if it undertakes the necessary measures, as the cost is invariably not budgeted for and the chances of recovery are sometimes at risk. The amendment rectifies this.

Further, the Schedule to the Act relating to applicable offences has been updated and now includes other Acts and Ordinances.

Clause 19: Insertion of Clause 34H

Fines were previously limited to the Adjustment of Fines Act, 1991 (Act No. 101 of 1991), which had a maximum of R300 000. As the amount of fines under this Act has been increased, this amendment is to allow the magistrates' court to have jurisdiction instead of the High Court.

2.2.2 *Environment Conservation Act, 1989Clause 20: Amendment of section 29

The amount of fines or imprisonment has been increased so as not to limit it to the Adjustment of Fines Act, 1991 which has not caught with inflation or the seriousness of the offence.

Clause 21: Amendment of section 32

At present all directives issued by the applicable Ministers must be published in the Gazette. This is an onerous burden on the State and if not carried will result in the directive being invalid and could affect current directives. The amendment seeks to do away with this requirement.

2.2.3 National Environment Management: Protected Areas Act, 2003

Clause 22: Amendment of section 20

Reference to National Parks and their areas are contained in the repealed National Parks Act, 1976 (Act No. 57 of 1976) except for section (2) and Schedule 1. It is desirable now to repeal this section and have all provisions dealing with national parks in the Protected Areas Act. Further, any amendments or additions to the Parks are provided for by means of a notice in the Gazette thus preventing the Act itself from been amended each time the Schedule is amended.

Clause 23: Amendment of section 28

This section at present contains a time period for an area of land to be included in to a national park or nature reserve. The motivation for this is uncertain, but as this can be an effective mechanism for the land area under conservation to be increased, the time period can now be extended by agreement with all the parties concerned.

Clause 24: Amendment of section 38

As subsection (1) now reads the Minister must assign the management of a special nature reserve or a nature reserve to a suitable person, organisation or the state. As SANParks have the “copyright” on the name, it is not desirable to have multiple organisations running national parks. It is therefore recommended that the “must” be substituted with “may”, thus giving the Minister a discretion and that national parks are only assigned to SANParks.

Clause 25: Amendment of section 47

As controlling flights over special nature reserves, national parks or heritage sites are of utmost importance to protect live and the environment, this section has been amended to provide that prior written permission and subject to conditions that the management authority provides must first be obtained before flying over the aforementioned areas. Provision is made that contravention of this section is an offence

Clause 26: Amendment of section 48

The amendment is to correct an error in this section where “after” is substituted with “before”.

Clause 27: Insertion of section 49A

The present Act has no empowering section providing for animals occurring in protected areas where private ownership cannot be proved. The proposed amendments now give ownership in trust to the State. It will also be the State's responsibility to manage escaped animals. This section further provides that a person who becomes aware of an escaped animal is obliged to report this, failing which it will be an offence. Further, the section allows a person to kill an animal in self- defence if human life is at stake, while exempting the management of SANParks from liability, except if negligent or acted intentionally.

Clause 28: Amendment of section 54

In the present Act, there is no enabling section providing for the tax exemption, winding up or dissolution of SANParks and the transfer of its assets. The proposed amendment now provides for this if the transferee has similar interests and is exempted from income tax in terms of the Income Tax Act, 1962 (Act No, 58 of 1962).

Clause 29: Amendment of section 55

The present Act has no empowering section providing for SANParks to manage all existing national parks and such further national parks, special nature reserves, nature reserves and national protected areas. Further provision has now been made for the Minister to assign the management of world heritage sites and protected areas not included under section 55(1) (a) of the Protected Area Act, subject to written documentation by the Minister. Further to increase their exposure provision is now made for SANParks to attend international and similar initiatives identified by the Minister.

As roads in the park are neither national nor provincial a provision is now made for SANParks to impose traffic rules in all areas administered by them.

Clause 30: Amendment of section 75

Previously SANParks could only retain as part of their funds monies received offence committed within national parks. This is now been expanded to include monies collected for all offences committed under the Protected Areas Act.

Clause 31: Amendment of section 82

Presently the Act only allows the Minister to expropriate a servitude but exclude a privately held right to State land. This is now rectified to include privately held rights to State land.

Clause 32: Amendment of section 88

The amount of fines or imprisonment for contravention of a regulation have been increased so as not to limit it to the Adjustment of Fines Act, 1991 which has not caught with inflation or the seriousness of the offence.

Clause 33: Amendment of section 89

This section has been amended to provide for the new offences and to increase the amount of fines or imprisonment so as not to limit it to the Adjustment of Fines Act, 1991 which has not caught with inflation or the seriousness of the offence.

Provision is now made that contravention of a regulation is an offence in order that the increased penalties will apply and that the magistrates court will have jurisdiction instead of the High Court.

2.2.4 Atmospheric Pollution Prevention Act, 1956

Clause 34: Amendment of section 46

To be consistent with all the other Acts forming part of the amendment, the amount of a fine or imprisonment has been increased.

2.2.5 National Environment Management: Air Quality Act, 2004Clause 35: Amendment of section 45

At present there is no provision for the payment of a prescribed processing fee where a licence must undergo a periodic review. As this is the accepted norm, the amendment remedies this.

Clause 36: Amendment of section 49

The present wording of the section excludes reference to a "juristic person", which was excluded per error. It is important to have it included as its members may fall within the ambit of the section. This has now been remedied.

Clause 37: Amendment of section 52

The amount of a fine has been amended so as not to limit it to the Adjustment of Fines Act, 1991 which is below this limit. The section has also been amended to allow the magistrates' court to have jurisdiction instead of the High Court.

2.2.6 National Environment Management: Biodiversity Act, 2004Clause 38: Amendment of section 11

Monitoring by SANBI should be such that it can identify unforeseen genetically modified organisms. This can only be done by amending the section to allow for general surveillance, and to report on all categories of genetically modified organism.

Clause 39: Amendment of section 45

As this section presently reads, the Act is forced to be compliant to subordinate Acts. The proposed amendment corrects this.

Clause 40: Amendment of section 57

The present section does not give the Minister power to give exemption for any restricted activity. A new provision has been added to correct this.

Clause 41: Amendment of section 58

The provision of this section is to allow for the amendment or repeal of certain notices. This has now been extended to allow for the new notice under section 57(4).

Clause 42: Amendment of section 78

It is essential that when genetically modified organisms are released into the environment that a full environmental impact assessment be carried out. The section has been amended to provide for this.

Clause 43: Amendment of section 81

A new section has been inserted (81A) requiring notification requirements. This has the effect that no person may engage in the commercialisation phase of biosprospecting without a permit.

Clause 44: Insertion of section 81A

At present the Act does not require notification requirements when a person engages in the discovery phase of biosprospecting indigenous biological resources. The present process results in unnecessary delays in the discovery phase and could create unjustified expectations. The amendment is to make provision for this by now providing for notification requirements.

Clause 45: Amendment of section 82

The present wording of this section did not take into account traditional knowledge of indigenous biological resources known only to specific individuals. This section has now been amended to provide for this.

Clause 46: Amendment of section 85

At present the Trust is administered by the Director-General. As this is an administrative burden, this could be managed by a trustee falling within the Trust Property Act, 1998. An option is now provided for the Director-General to have this discretion. The Director-General still retains accountability for the money in the Fund.

Clause 47: Amendment of section 86

This section has been amended to give the Minister powers to exempt certain categories of research involving indigenous biological resources and commercial exploitation.

Clause 48: Amendment of section 92

The present cross-reference is incorrect and has been amended accordingly.

Clause 49: Insertion of section 93A

The present Act does not provide for the renewal and amendment of permits. This has created administrative problems and the amendment seeks to address this shortcoming.

Clause 50: Amendment of section 97

This section is at present restrictive to the implementation and enforcement of an international agreement and now has made applicable to all species to which an agreement applies.

Further, provision has been made that regulations relating to the "hunting industry" can be made and for the requirements for notification in respect of the new section 81A.

Clause 51: Amendment of section 98

In line with other amendments to the Bill, the amount of a fine and imprisonment has been increased for contravention of a regulation.

Clause 52: Amendment of section 102

The amount of a fine (and imprisonment) has been amended so as not to limit it to the Adjustment of Fines Act, 1991 which is below this limit. The section has also been amended to allow the magistrates' court to have jurisdiction instead of the High Court.

Clause 53

This clause gives the Bill a name and states how it will come into effect.

Clause 54: Amendment to Schedule 3

The references to various sections have been corrected and other legislation made applicable to the relevant section.

Clause 55

This is new Schedules to the Act and was motivated by having reference to National Parks contained now only in this Act with a detailed description of the various parks.

3. FINANCIAL IMPLICATIONS FOR THE STATE

The Bill does not create further financial liabilities to the Department.

4. PERSONNEL IMPLICATIONS

The amendments contained in this Bill do not create any new structure and therefore does not require an increase to the Department's establishment.

5. LEGAL IMPLICATIONS

The Bill will need to be tagged as either a Section 75 (Bill not affecting Provinces) or Section 76 (Bill affecting Provinces) in terms of the Constitution, 1996. The Directorate has liaised with the Office of the State Law Advisor and has been advised that the Bill will be considered for tagging by the Parliamentary Tagging Committee. If it is the recommendation of the Tagging Committee that the Bill be split before tabling in the National Assembly the Office of the State Law Advisor will do the split before certifying the Bill.

6. COMMUNICATION IMPLICATIONS

Appropriate communication measures will be implemented by the Government Communication and Information System.

7. PROVINCIAL IMPLICATIONS

None

8. CONSTITUTIONAL IMPLICATIONS
