Notes

1. A double taxation treaty aims to eliminate the double taxation of income arising in one State and paid to residents of another State. Without a treaty the income could be taxable both in the State where it arises and in the State of residence of the recipient. Under a double taxation treaty taxing rights are allocated between States in respect of various classes of income and there are provisions to eliminate cases of double taxation that remain.

2. Double taxation treaties provide certainty of treatment for cross-border economic activity. The business community has long welcomed such treaties as an essential part of the framework for international trade. Double taxation treaties also include provisions to counter avoidance and evasion – not least by measures providing for the exchange of information between Revenue Authorities.
