To provide a framework for spatial planning and land use management in the Republic; to specify the relationship between the spatial planning and the land use management system and other kinds of planning; to provide for the inclusive, developmental, equitable and efficient spatial planning at the different spheres of government; to provide a framework for the monitoring, coordination and review of the spatial planning and land use management system; to provide a framework for policies, principles, norms and standards for spatial development planning and land use management; to address past spatial and regulatory imbalances; to promote greater consistency and uniformity in the application procedures and decision-making by authorities responsible for land use decisions and development applications; to provide for the establishment, functions and operations of Municipal Planning Tribunals; to provide for the facilitation and enforcement of land use and development measures; and to provide for matters connected therewith.

PREAMBLE

WHEREAS many people in South Africa continue to live and work in places defined and influenced by past spatial planning and land use laws and practices which were based on—

- racial inequality;
- segregation; and
- unsustainable settlement patterns;

AND WHEREAS the continued existence and operation of multiple laws at national and provincial spheres of government in addition to the laws applicable in the previous homelands and self-governing territories have created fragmentation, duplication and unfair discrimination;

AND WHEREAS parts of our urban and rural areas currently do not have any applicable spatial planning and land use management legislation and are therefore excluded from the benefits of spatial development planning and land use management systems;

AND WHEREAS various laws governing land use give rise to uncertainty about the status of municipal spatial planning and land use management systems and procedures and frustrates the achievement of cooperative governance and the promotion of public interest;

AND WHEREAS informal and traditional land use development processes are poorly integrated into formal systems of spatial planning and land use management;

AND WHEREAS spatial planning is insufficiently underpinned and supported by infrastructural investment;

AND WHEREAS it is the State's obligation to realise the constitutional imperatives in—

- section 24 of the Constitution, to have the environment protected for the benefit of present and future generations through reasonable legislative and other measures, which include a land use planning system that is protective of the environment;
- section 25 of the Constitution, to ensure the protection of property rights including measures designed to foster conditions that enable citizens to gain access to land on an equitable basis;
- section 26 of the Constitution, to have the right of access to adequate housing which includes an equitable spatial pattern and sustainable human settlements; and
- section 27(1)(b) of the Constitution, to ensure that the State takes reasonable legislative measures, within its available resources, to achieve the progressive realisation of the right to sufficient food and water;

AND WHEREAS the State must respect, protect, promote and fulfil the social, economic and environmental rights of everyone and strive to meet the basic needs of previously disadvantaged communities;

AND WHEREAS sustainable development of land requires the integration of social, economic and environmental considerations in both forward planning and ongoing land use management to ensure that development of land serves present and future generations;

AND WHEREAS regional planning and development, urban and rural development and housing are functional areas of concurrent national and provincial legislative competence;

AND WHEREAS provincial planning is within the functional areas of exclusive provincial legislative competence, and municipal planning is primarily the executive function of the local sphere of government;

AND WHEREAS municipalities must participate in national and provincial development programmes;

AND WHEREAS it is necessary that—

- a uniform, recognisable and comprehensive system of spatial planning and land use management be established throughout the Republic to maintain economic unity, equal opportunity and equal access to government services;
- the system of spatial planning and land use management promotes social and economic inclusion;
- principles, policies, directives and national norms and standards required to achieve important urban, rural, municipal, provincial, regional and national development goals and objectives through spatial planning and land use management be established; and
- procedures and institutions to facilitate and promote cooperative government and intergovernmental relations in respect of spatial development planning and land use management systems be developed,

BE IT THEREFORE ENACTED by the Parliament of the Republic of South Africa, as follows:—

CHAPTER 2

DEVELOPMENT PRINCIPLES AND NORMS AND STANDARDS

Application of development principles

- 6. (1) The general principles set out in this Chapter apply to all organs of state and other authorities responsible for the implementation of legislation regulating the use and development of land, and guide—
 - (a) the preparation, adoption and implementation of any spatial development framework, policy or by-law concerning spatial planning and the development or use of land;
 - (b) the compilation, implementation and administration of any land use scheme or other regulatory mechanism for the management of the use of land;
 - (c) the sustainable use and development of land;
 - (d) the consideration by a competent authority of any application that impacts or may impact upon the use and development of land; and
 - (e) the performance of any function in terms of this Act or any other law regulating spatial planning and land use management.
- (2) Notwithstanding the categorisation of principles in this section, all principles contained in this Act apply to all aspects of spatial development planning, land development and land use management.

Development principles

- 7. The following principles apply to spatial planning, land development and land use management:
 - (a) The principle of spatial justice, whereby—
 - (i) past spatial and other development imbalances must be redressed through improved access to and use of land;
 - (ii) spatial development frameworks and policies at all spheres of government must address the inclusion of persons and areas that were previously excluded, with an emphasis on informal settlements, former homeland areas and areas characterised by widespread poverty and deprivation;

- (iii) spatial planning mechanisms, including land use schemes, must incorporate provisions that enable redress in access to land by disadvantaged communities and persons;
- (iv) land use management systems must include all areas of a municipality and specifically include provisions that are flexible and appropriate for the management of disadvantaged areas, informal settlements and former homeland areas; 5
- (v) land development procedures must include provisions that accommodate access to secure tenure and the incremental upgrading of informal areas; and 10
- (vi) a Municipal Planning Tribunal considering an application before it, may not be impeded or restricted in the exercise of its discretion solely on the ground that the value of land or property is affected by the outcome of the application;
- (b) the principle of spatial sustainability, whereby spatial planning and land use management systems must— 15
 - (i) promote land development that is within the fiscal, institutional and administrative means of the Republic;
 - (ii) ensure that special consideration is given to the protection of prime and unique agricultural land; 20
 - (iii) uphold consistency of land use measures in accordance with environmental management instruments;
 - (iv) promote and stimulate the effective and equitable functioning of land markets;
 - (v) consider all current and future costs to all parties for the provision of infrastructure and social services in land developments; 25
 - (vi) promote land development in locations that are sustainable and limit urban sprawl; and
 - (vii) result in communities that are viable;
- (c) the principle of efficiency, whereby— 30
 - (i) land development optimises the use of existing resources and infrastructure;
 - (ii) decision-making procedures are designed to minimise negative financial, social, economic or environmental impacts; and
 - (iii) development application procedures are efficient and streamlined and timeframes are adhered to by all parties; 35
- (d) the principle of spatial resilience, whereby flexibility in spatial plans, policies and land use management systems are accommodated to ensure sustainable livelihoods in communities most likely to suffer the impacts of economic and environmental shocks; and 40
- (e) the principle of good administration, whereby—
 - (i) all spheres of government ensure an integrated approach to land use and land development that is guided by the spatial planning and land use management systems as embodied in this Act;
 - (ii) all government departments must provide their sector inputs and comply with any other prescribed requirements during the preparation or amendment of spatial development frameworks; 45
 - (iii) the requirements of any law relating to land development and land use are met timeously;
 - (iv) the preparation and amendment of spatial plans, policies, land use schemes as well as procedures for development applications, include transparent processes of public participation that afford all parties the opportunity to provide inputs on matters affecting them; and 50
 - (v) policies, legislation and procedures must be clearly set in order to inform and empower members of the public. 55

8. (1) The Minister must, after consultation with organs of state in the provincial and local spheres of government, prescribe norms and standards for land use management and land development that are consistent with this Act, the Promotion of Administrative Justice Act, 2000 (Act No. 3 of 2000), and the Intergovernmental Relations Framework Act. 60

 - (g) provide for the effective monitoring and evaluation of compliance with and enforcement of this Act.

MEMORANDUM ON THE OBJECTS OF THE SPATIAL PLANNING AND LAND USE MANAGEMENT BILL, 2012

1. BACKGROUND

1.1 The planning system which exists in South Africa today (laws, policies, institutions and practices) has been shaped by many different governments, each responding to the problems which they defined as the most significant of the day. South Africa still operates with fragmented, unequal and incoherent spatial planning and land use management systems, which often stifles land and economic development and the transformation of apartheid-based settlement patterns.

1.2 The Development Facilitation Act, 1995 (Act No. 67 of 1995) (the DFA), was passed as an interim measure to facilitate the establishment of an integrated system. It did not repeal existing laws. As a result, parallel and complex systems of land development continue to operate.

1.3 In 1997 the government appointed the Development and Planning Commission to, amongst other things, advise on how best to streamline the various policy, legislative and regulatory frameworks. In 1999, after extensive national consultations, the Commission produced the Green Paper on Development and Planning.

1.4 Cabinet approved the White Paper on Spatial Planning and Land Use Management in June 2001. It was published in Gazette No. 22473 of 20 July 2001, together with a Draft Land Use Management Bill. The White Paper provides for rationalisation of the existing planning laws into one national system.

1.5 On 5 June 2007 the Cabinet Committee on Governance and Administration considered and raised some concerns regarding the Draft Land Use Management Bill. On 13 June 2007 the Cabinet approved the recommendations of the Committee on Governance and Administration on the Draft Land Use Management Bill.

1.6 These concerns were addressed by the Department of Land Affairs, leading to the presentation of the revised Draft Land Use Management Bill to the Cabinet during 2008.

1.7 The Land Use Management Bill, 2008, was again officially introduced to the public with a call for comments by the publication of an explanatory summary in Gazette No. 30979 of 15 April 2008. Though the Bill went through parliamentary processes in 2008, it was not passed into law.

1.8 Constitutionality of the DFA

In the City of Johannesburg Metropolitan Municipality v Gauteng Development Tribunal & Others (CCT 89/09 [2010] ZACC 11; 2010 (6) SA 182 (CC); 2010(9) BCLR 859 (CC) (18 June 2010) the constitutionality of the DFA was considered.

1.8.1 This matter arose from a dispute between the City of Johannesburg Metropolitan Municipality and the Gauteng Development Tribunal (the Tribunal), a provincial organ created by the DFA. The DFA empowers the Tribunal to approve applications for the rezoning of land and the establishment of townships, whereas the Gauteng Town-Planning and Townships Ordinance (15 of 1986) empowers the City to make a determination on the same subject matter. Aggrieved by this situation, the City instituted an application in the South Gauteng High Court, Johannesburg, challenging the constitutional validity of the DFA and seeking a review of two of the Tribunal's decisions. The High Court dismissed the application and the City appealed to the Supreme Court of Appeal (the SCA), which held that the relevant chapters of the DFA were invalid and dismissed the appeal relating to the claims for review.

1.8.2 The City appealed to the Constitutional Court. The primary issue for determination was whether the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996 (the Constitution), empowers the local or the provincial sphere of government, or both, to exercise powers relating to the rezoning of land and the establishment of townships.

1.8.3 The Constitutional Court decided on 18 June 2010 that the Constitution envisages a degree of autonomy for the local sphere of government, in which municipalities exercise their original constitutional powers free from undue interference from the other spheres of government. The Court endorsed the SCA's finding that "planning" in the context of municipal affairs has assumed a particular, well-established meaning which includes the zoning of land and the establishment of townships. Therefore, the Court held that the powers to consider and approve applications for the rezoning of land and the establishment of townships are elements of "municipal planning", an exclusive municipal function assigned to municipalities by section 156(1) of the Constitution, read with Part B of Schedule 4. Consequently, Chapters V and VI of the DFA were found to be constitutionally invalid as they assign exclusive municipal powers to organs of the provincial sphere of government.

1.8.4 The judgment of the Court is significant for the following reasons:

- (a) The order of invalidity of Chapters V and VI of the DFA has been suspended for 24 months from the date of the judgment (18 June 2010). A definite and critical timeline therefore had to be established for the Spatial Planning and Land Use Management Bill (the Bill) to be enacted, i.e. by 17 June 2012.
- (b) The Constitutional Court found that municipal planning includes the powers and functions necessary to determine rezoning and township establishment applications, and concluded that municipal planning is the exclusive competence of municipal government.
- (c) While not providing specific definitions for the concepts, the court also found that “provincial planning,” “regional planning” and “urban and rural development” were to be narrowly defined, so that the manner of their interpretation would not limit the powers and functions of municipalities in respect of municipal planning.
- (d) These findings have implications for the institutions and structures created by the Bill, as well as their composition, legal status and powers and functions.

2. FORMULATION OF THE PROBLEM

2.1 The pre-1994 settlement patterns, which resulted in uneven land allocation and service levels, segregation, extreme poverty and dependence, found accommodation in many planning laws at all levels of government. While the DFA represents a significant attempt at addressing these unacceptable settlement patterns, this piece of legislation did not repeal the pre-1994 pieces of legislation on planning. The net effect is that many pre-1994 planning laws remain in operation.

2.2 This regulatory framework has a direct impact on the country in the following ways:

- (a) Economically: it impedes investment in land development and fails to establish sufficient certainty in the land market;
- (b) Spatially: it fails to address the segregated and unequal spatial patterns inherited from apartheid; and
- (c) Environmentally: it does not balance the country’s socio-economic needs with those of environmental conservation.

2.3 The continued operation of these multiple pieces of planning laws renders the entire planning system inefficient, costly and confusing, and therefore does not support a number of objectives of the government.

3. DISCUSSION OF ALTERNATIVES

There is sufficient consensus that the South African spatial pattern is discriminatory, inefficient, costly and puts a considerable burden on public resources, and that this legacy must be addressed.

4. MOTIVATION

4.1 South Africa’s cities, towns and settlements need to be restructured to reflect the priorities and principles of the democratic government. The restructuring of the settlement structure and patterns is crucial for sustainable, efficient, equitable and effective service delivery. It is a precondition for maximising the use of scarce resources.

4.2 The Bill seeks to bridge the racial divide in spatial terms and to transform the settlement patterns of this country in a manner that gives effect to the key constitutional provisions.

4.3 The Bill provides for municipalities to play their developmental role effectively through the application of directive principles, land use schemes in decision-making with regard to land use and land development, and stipulates that municipalities be the primary land use regulators.

4.4 The provisions of this Bill support the environmental legislation, and other laws applicable to the municipal sphere.

5. OBJECTS OF THE BILL

5.1 The objects of the Bill are to—

- (a) provide for a uniform, effective and comprehensive system of spatial planning and land use management for the Republic;
- (b) ensure that the system of spatial planning and land use management promotes social and economic inclusion;
- (c) provide for development principles and norms and standards;
- (d) provide for the sustainable and efficient use of land;
- (e) provide for cooperative government and intergovernmental relations amongst the national, provincial and local spheres of government; and
- (f) redress the imbalances of the past and ensure that there is equity in the application of spatial development planning and land use management.

6. SUMMARY OF CONTENT OF THE BILL

The Bill is divided into seven chapters. They are as follows:

6.1 Chapter 1

Clauses 1 to 5 provide for definitions, the application of the Act, objects of the Act, an outline of the system of planning in South Africa and the categories of spatial planning.

6.2 Chapter 2

Clauses 6 to 8 provide an outline of key principles that are applicable to the spatial planning system and will also guide land development in general. It provides scope for the Minister of Rural Development and Land Reform (the Minister) to develop more comprehensive principles. The chapter also provides for the Minister to set out compulsory norms and standards for land use management.

6.3 Chapter 3

Clauses 9 to 11 outlines the mandates of national and provincial spheres in monitoring and support provision to ensure effective spatial planning and land use management processes. It also provides for a differentiated approach to municipalities.

6.4 Chapter 4

Clauses 12 to 22 provide for the preparation and contents of national, provincial, regional and municipal spatial development frameworks, as well as the status of spatial development frameworks.

6.5 Chapter 5

Clauses 23 to 32 provide for the adoption of municipal land use schemes, including their purpose, content, status, review and relationship with existing land use schemes. The section also provides for the amendment of land use schemes and the alignment of authorisations in terms of other applicable legislation.

6.6 Chapter 6

Clauses 33 to 52 provide for the establishment, composition, powers and functions of Municipal Planning Tribunals, as well as for internal appeals against the decisions of Municipal Planning Tribunals. It also deals with possible municipal cooperation in adopting land use schemes and joint consideration of development applications that affect the national interest.

6.7 Chapter 7

Clauses 53 to 61 contain general provisions relating to commencement of registration of ownership, regulations, powers of the Minister to grant exemptions from provisions of the Act, delegations by the Minister, Premiers and municipalities to officials, non-impediment of function, offences and penalties, repeal of legislation, transitional provisions, and short title and commencement.

7. CONSULTATION

7.1 The Department of Rural Development and Land Reform (the Department) has worked closely with The Presidency (National Planning Commission) in finalising the Bill to ensure that it has addressed the various challenges in current systems. Other departments, including the Departments of Cooperative Governance, Human Settlements, Environmental Affairs, Economic Development, Transport, National Treasury, and the other two spheres of government, including the South African Local Government Association (SALGA) and the South African Cities Network (SACN), have been involved in the process leading to the development of this Bill.

7.2 The Bill was presented to the Forum of Directors-General on 6 April 2011, the Cabinet Committee on Economic Sector, Employment and Infrastructure Development on 13 April 2011 and the Cabinet on 20 April 2011. The Cabinet approved the publication of the Bill for public comment on 20 April 2011 and directed that a Regulatory Impact Assessment be conducted on the Bill during the consultation phase.

7.3 The Bill was published in Gazette No. 34270 on 6 May 2011. In response to this call for participation in the process, more than 100 written submissions were received.

7.4 A Regulatory Impact Assessment (the RIA) of the Bill was concluded in July 2011.

7.5 In addition to the public consultation, the Department engaged in an extensive consultation process with key stakeholders. Bilateral meetings and workshops were held with key public and private sector stakeholders, including national and provincial government departments; local, district and metropolitan municipalities; statutory bodies such as the National House of Traditional Leaders, SALGA and NEDLAC; professional bodies such as the South African Council for Planners; and private sector bodies such as the South African Property Owners Association and the Development Bank of South Africa. Consultation with key stakeholders is still ongoing.

8. IMPLICATION FOR PROVINCES

8.1 The Bill provides for the uniform regulation of land use management in the Republic, and the provisions thereof will affect all three spheres of government. Provinces will still have the competence to legislate on those functional areas mentioned in Schedule 5 to the Constitution. Capacity will also have to be augmented in some provinces to ensure that they are able to implement their mandates as outlined in the Bill.

9. FINANCIAL IMPLICATIONS

9.1 The RIA has been undertaken and will inform a comprehensive implementation plan.

9.2 The Department has also initiated a wide range of support projects and initiatives, including supporting provinces to draft provincial spatial planning and land use management legislation.

9.3 The actual financial implications are yet to be determined. The RIA has envisaged a substantial increase in the initial implementation phase but it is also envisaged that these will decrease in time.

10. PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE

10.1 The Department and the State Law Advisers were of the opinion that the Bill must be dealt with in accordance with the parliamentary procedure prescribed by section 76(2) of the Constitution, since the provisions of the Bill contain subject matters that are listed in Schedules 4 and 5 to the Constitution.

10.2 After introduction of the Bill in the National Council of Provinces, classification of the Bill was captured in the ATC of 6 June 2012, as follows:

- “(a) Joint Rule 161(1)(b) provides that a Bill is constitutionally out of order if it is in breach of section 73(3), in that the Bill was introduced in the wrong House. The Spatial Planning and Land Use Management Bill was introduced in the National Council of Provinces in terms of section 76(2), despite it including provisions that deal with an exclusive provincial competence. Parliament may only pass legislation dealing with an exclusive provincial competence if the requirements of section 44(2) are met and according to the procedure set out in section 76(1).
- (b) The introduction of the Bill in the NCOP does not comply with the procedural requirements of the Constitution and the Joint Rules of Parliament. Accordingly, in terms of Joint Rule 160(4), the Bill is constitutionally out of order. In terms of Joint Rule 162(1) the Bill may not be proceeded with.

- (c) The Bill may, however, in terms of Joint Rule 162(2)(b), be re-introduced in the National Assembly in accordance with the procedure set out in section 76(1).”

10.3 The State Law Advisers are of the opinion that it is not necessary to refer this Bill to the National House of Traditional Leaders in terms of section 18(1)(a) of the Traditional Leadership and Governance Framework Act, 2003 (Act No. 41 of 2003), since it does not contain any provisions pertaining to customary law or to the customs of traditional communities.
